TWO WAYS TO SCORE

Penalty points: after each deal everyone writes down the value of their own hand. The player who went out writes 0. When a total reaches the target, usually 100 (200 for a longer game), the game stops and the lowest total wins.

Winner collects: the player who went out writes down the value of everyone else's hands added together. Nobody else scores. The first to reach the target wins: 50 per player, so 100 for two players and 200 for four.

Blocked deal (nobody went out): with penalty points everyone writes their own hand. With winner collects, the lowest hand takes the gap to each higher hand.

For personal, at-home use.
